Description

Meghan Velez got her first child when she was 24. Since then she couldn't keep a fulltime job. So, she started working at the local library as a receptionist. Luckily her husband Wiebe Giebels could take over the workload as a teacher.

In the past, Meghan was not Outgoing. She had her own little bubble of communication. But now that she's older, she made it a natural habit to try new things and join communities to increase her social life. She loves talking about books and culture. No matter the setting, she is always in for a conversation.
